

Assignment 3

Ling 201 – Spring 2026

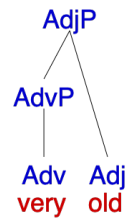

(100 pts total)

Part 1: Tree Structure of Simple Sentences.

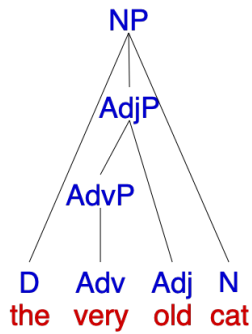

a. in the park

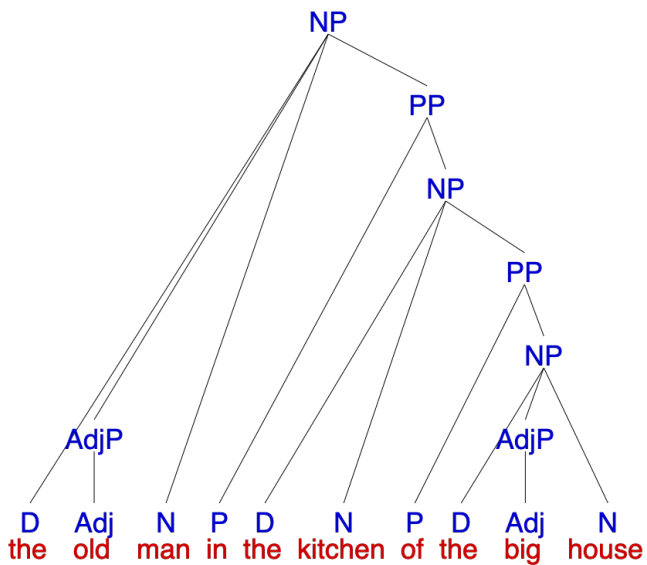

b. very old

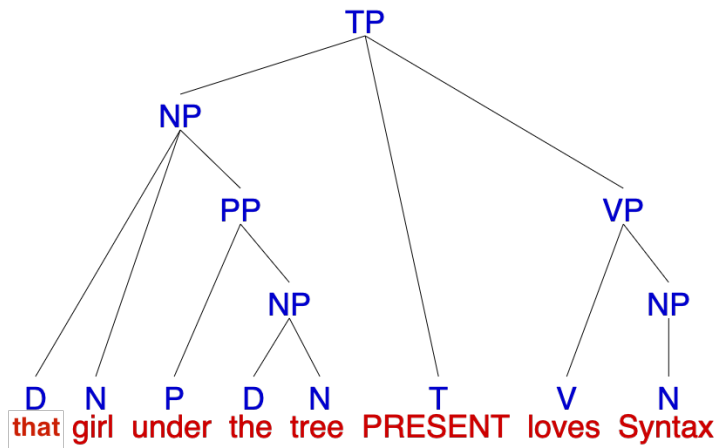

c. the very old cat

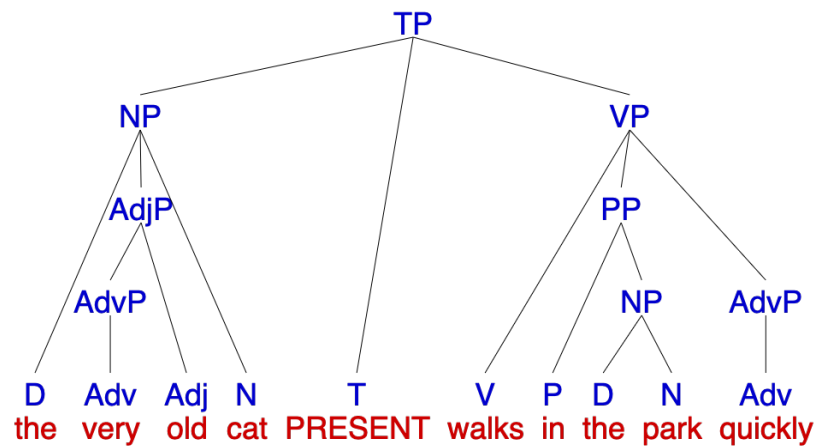

d. the old man in the small kitchen of the big house

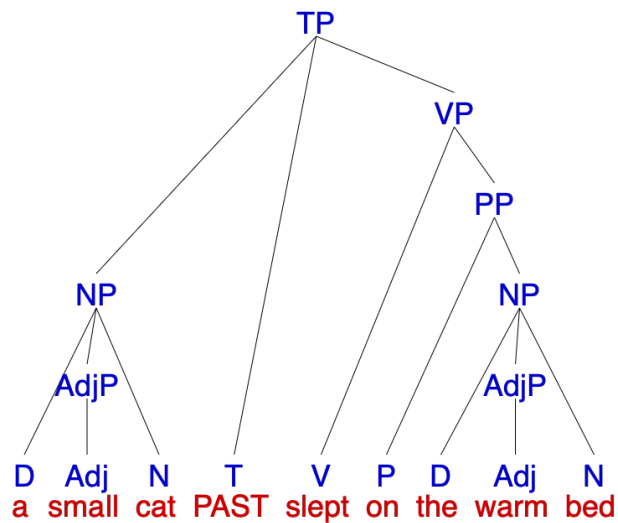

- e. That girl under the tree loves syntax.

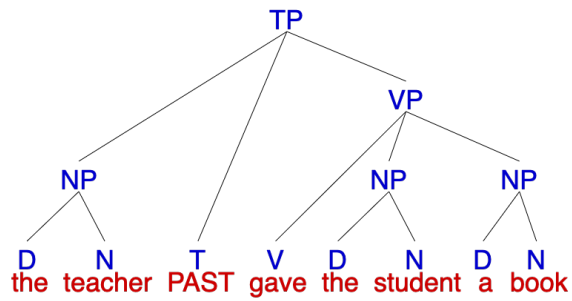

- f. The very old cat walks in the park quickly.

- g. A small cat slept on the warm bed.

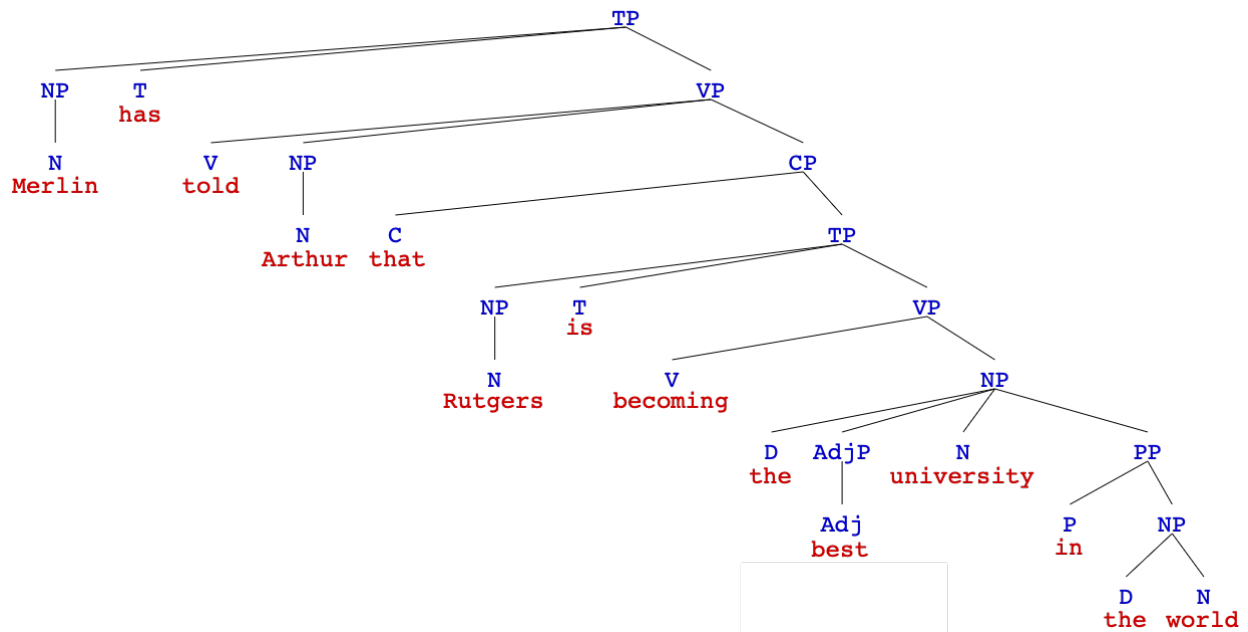

h. The teacher gave the student a book.

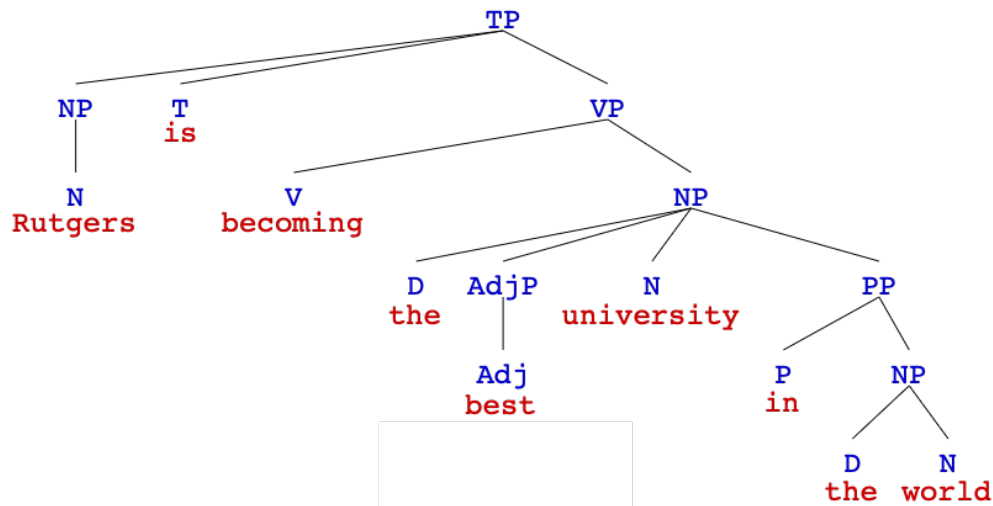

Part 2: Tree Structure of Complex Sentences.

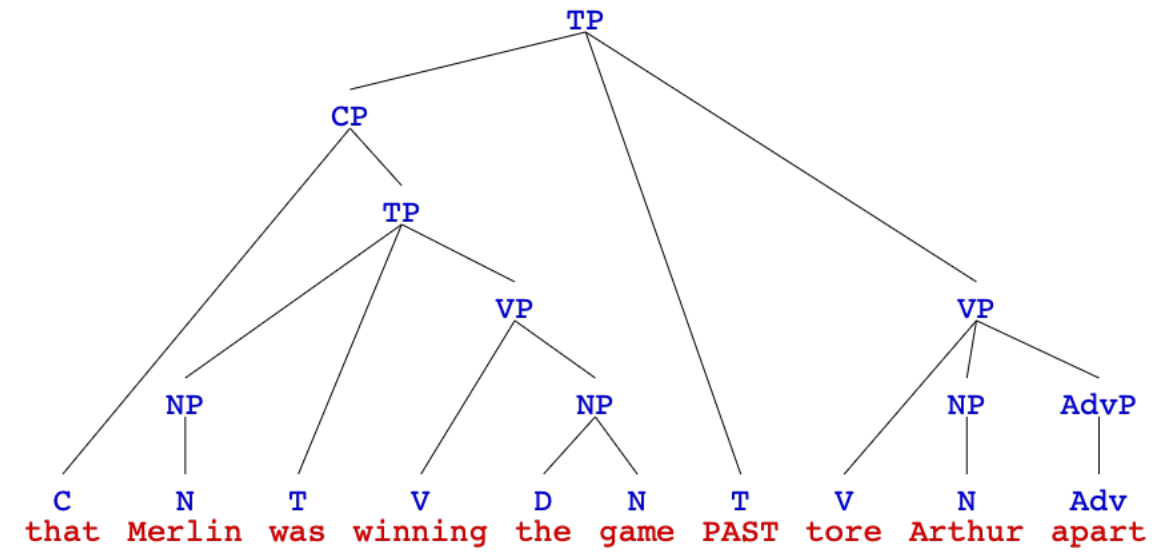

a. Merlin has told Arthur that Rutgers is becoming the best University in the world.

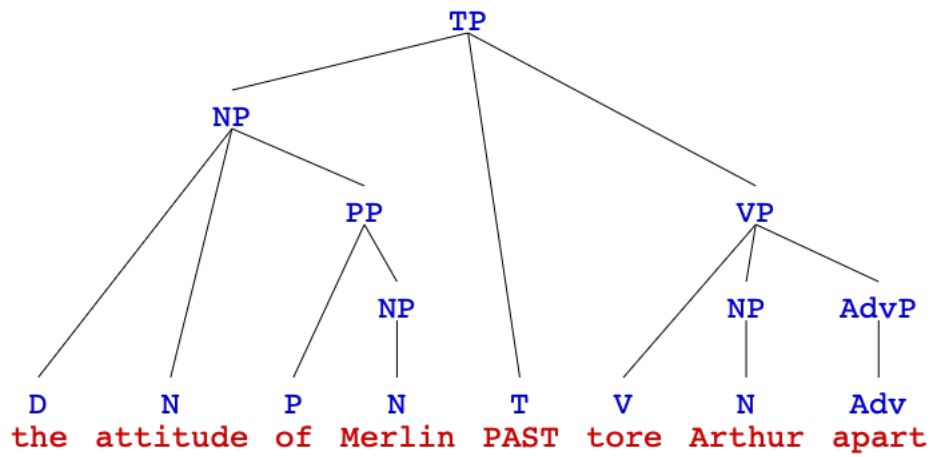

or

- b. That Merlin was winning the game tore Arthur apart.

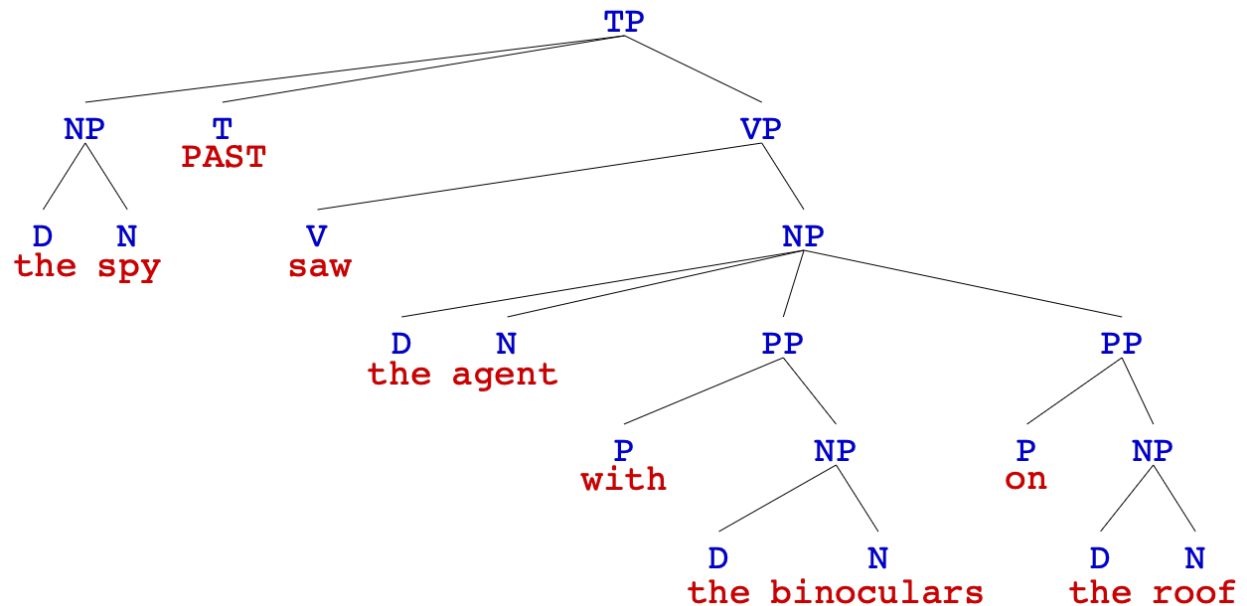

or

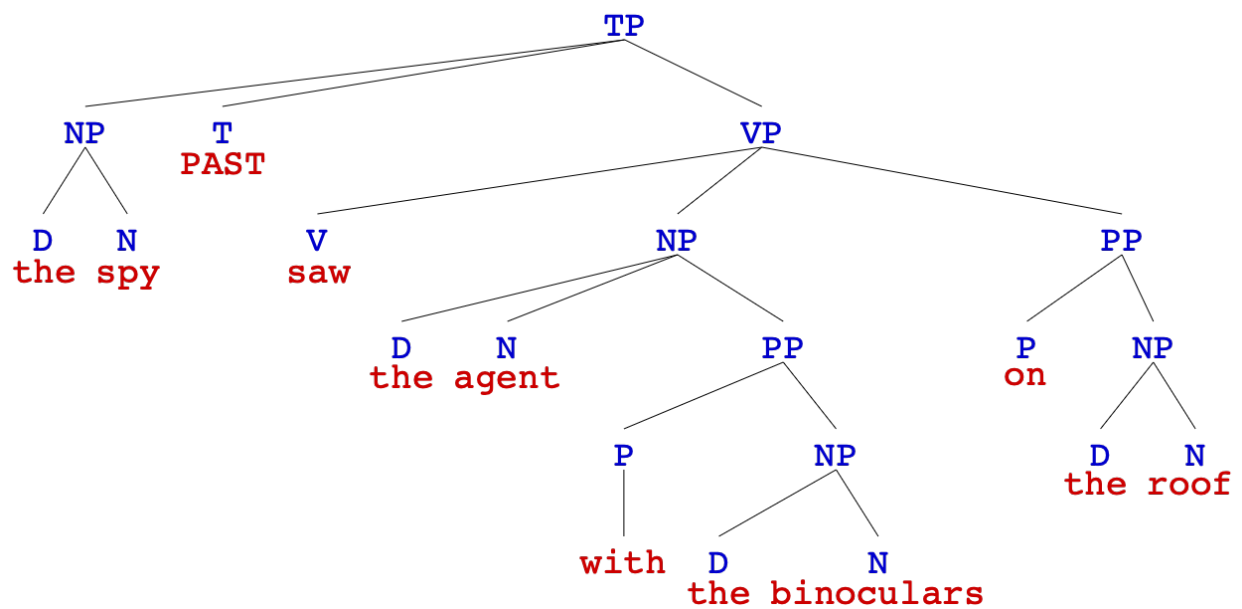

Part 3: Tree Structure of Structural Ambiguity.

The spy saw the agent with the binoculars on the roof.

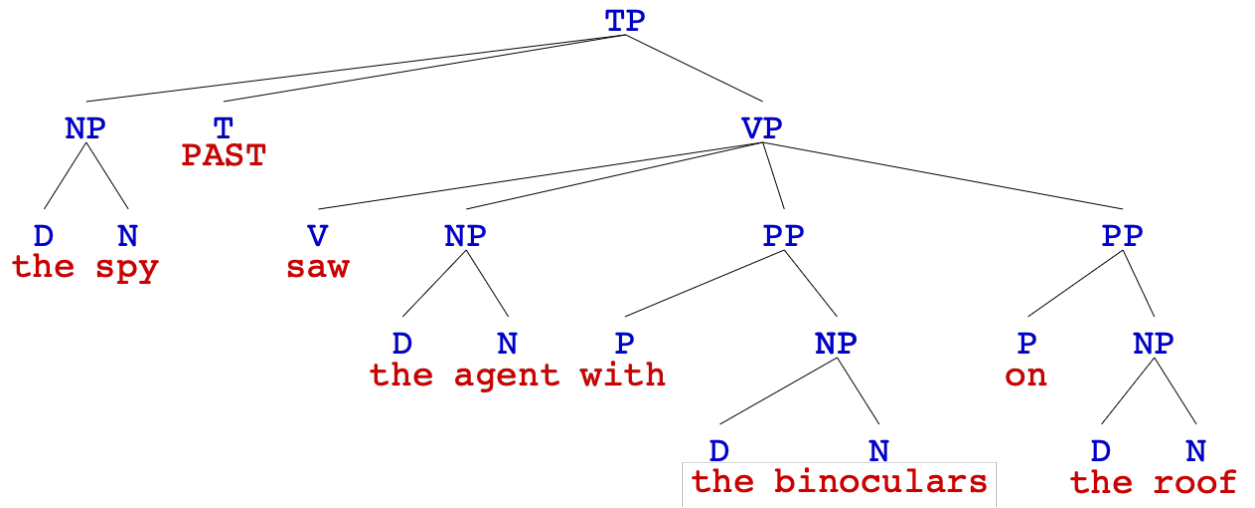

1. agent with the binoculars, agent on the roof [both PPs modify head N “agent”]

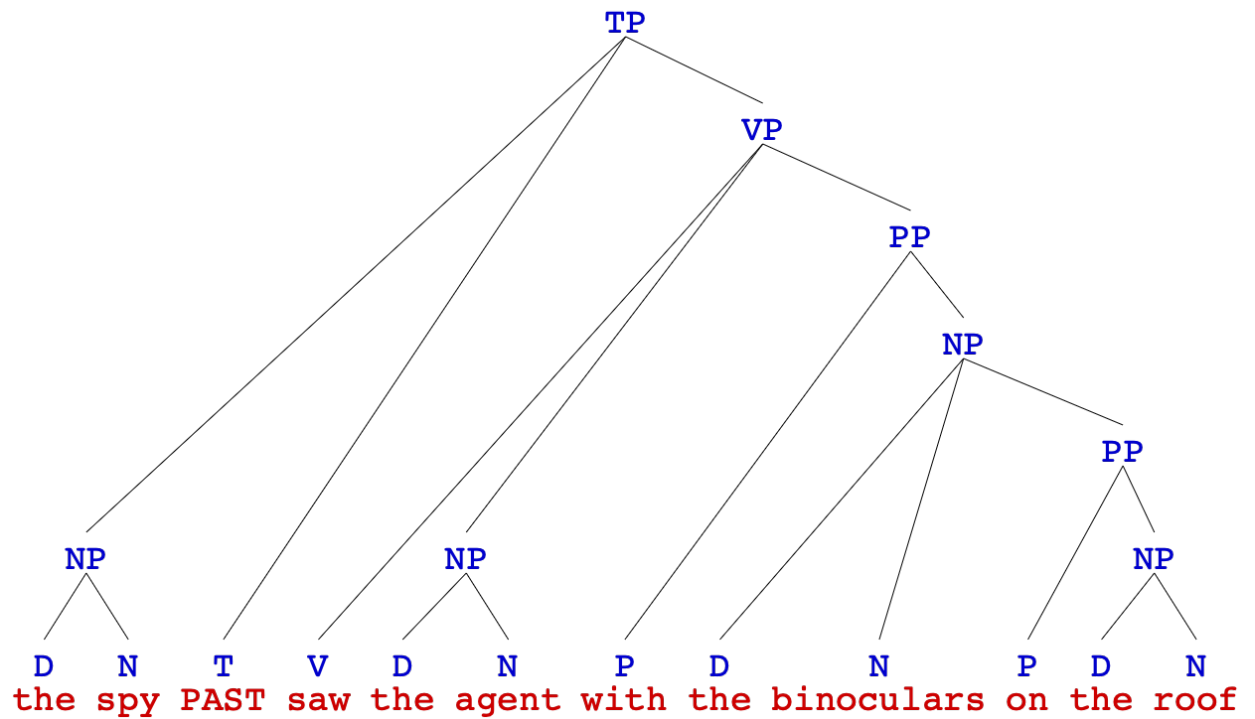

2. agent with the binoculars, spy saw on the roof [PP “with the binoculars” modifies the head N “agent”, PP “on the roof” modifies the head V “saw”]

3. spy saw using the binoculars, spy saw on the roof [both PPs modify the head V “saw”]

4. spy saw with the binoculars, binoculars on the roof [PP “with the binoculars” modifies the head V “saw”, PP “on the roof” modifies the head N “binoculars”]

Part 4: Dutch Syntax.

1. Assume that an AdjP phrase structure rule is AdjP → Adj, what is the NP rule of Dutch?

NP → (D) (AdjP) N (PP)

2. What is the PP rule of Dutch?

PP → P NP

3. What is the VP rule of Dutch?

VP → {PP, NP} V

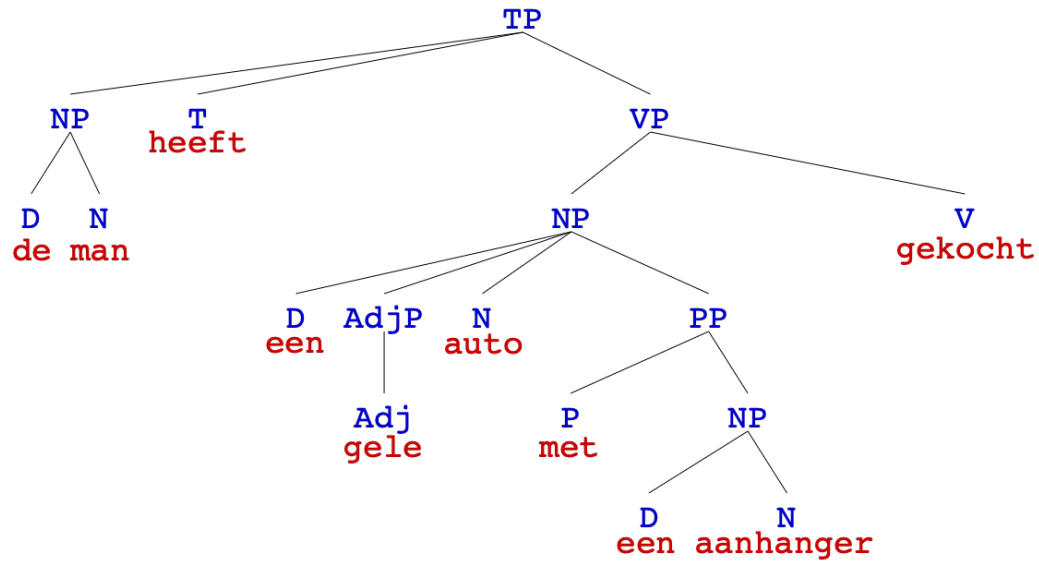

4. Assume that is and heeft are of the category T and are not part of the VP, what is the TP rule for Dutch?

TP → NP T VP

Extra Credit

1. Draw syntactic trees for (a) and (b) in Part 4 for Dutch sentences.

2. Draw a possible syntactic tree for the following sentence.

The irritable bluejay noisily warned

the other small birds

about the very large circling hawk

in the clear sky.

